

WOMEN'S HEALTH
IN THE NORTH
voice • choice • power

Resisting Collusion with Male Perpetrators Training FAQ

What is Resisting Collusion with Male Perpetrators training?

This training assists professionals to effectively identify, understand and resist invitations to collude with male perpetrators of family violence. It is for professionals who have attended family violence training and who come across male perpetrators in their work.

How is this different from Men's Behaviour Change Program training?

Men's Behaviour Change Program training qualifies a professional to facilitate a Men's Behaviour Change Program. This training focuses on how professionals can ensure they do not collude with perpetrators in their work with them.

Who should come to this training?

This training is open to any professional who may come across male perpetrators in their work. Family violence professionals who respond to victim survivors are also welcome to attend.

What are the learning outcomes for this training?

Participants who attend the training will be able to:

- Explain what family violence is
- Identify the causes of family violence and violence against women
- List high-risk factors caused by male perpetrator behaviours
- Articulate elements of perpetrator accountability
- Identify core beliefs held by men who use violence
- Examine, understand and resist male perpetrator invitations to collude
- Name key referral and secondary consultation options.

Are there any prerequisites for attending the training?

Professionals need to have attended Identifying Family Violence: Responding to Victim Survivors training or equivalent in the past two years.

This session is sold out. What should I do now?

We encourage you to add your name to the waiting list. If a place becomes available, you will receive an email inviting you to register.

Training dates will be listed on the NIFVS website. You can subscribe to the NIFVS e-news to ensure you receive invitations.

Can NIFVS run this training at my organisation?

NIFVS does have some capacity to provide this as in-house, fee-for-service training. If you would like to organise this, please complete a Training Request Form.

I don't work in the Northern Metropolitan Region, can I access the training elsewhere?

This training is unique to the northern metropolitan region. Advertised sessions are only available for those who work in the north.

No To Violence are the statewide training provider for responding to men who use family violence. You can access information here.