What is Family Violence?

voice • choice • power

Family violence is 'a pattern of coercive control that one person exercises over another in order to dominate and get their way. It is behaviour that physically harms, arouses fear, prevents a person from doing what they want, or compels them to behave in ways they do not freely choose'.

Jones, A. & Schechter, S. (1992). When Love Goes Wrong. Melbourne: HarperCollins.

- Gender inequality sets the necessary context for family violence to occur it is the cause and consequence of violence against women.
- In addition to gendered drivers, drivers of family violence are also reflective of structural inequality, including, but not limited to, colonisation, racism, ableism, classism, ageism, homophobia, biphobia and transphobia.

Our WATCH (2016) Change the story: A shared framework for the primary prevention of violence against women and their children in Australia; State Government of Victoria (2018) Family Violence Multi-Agency Risk Assessment and Management Framework, P 23

- Victim survivors are not inherently vulnerable or 'at risk' but made so by policies, structures and systems.
- Perpetrators target victim survivors where the location and circumstances allow them to be in control.
- Discrimination, marginalisation and bigotry creates barriers for victim survivors in accessing the services and resources they require for safety, justice and recovery, and perpetrators know this.

VIOLENCE

POWER

VIOLENCE ,

PHYSICA USING COERCION AND THREATS

Making and/or carrying out threats to do something to hurt her • threatening to leave her, to commit suicide, to report her to welfare • making her drop charges • making her do illegal things.

ECONOMIC ABUSE

USING

Preventing her from getting or keeping a job • making her ask for money • giving her an allowance • taking her money • not letting her know about or have access to family income.

USING MALE PRIVILEGE

Treating her like a servant • making all the big decisions • acting like the "master of the castle" • being the one to define men's and women's roles

PHYSICAL

USING Children

Making her feel guilty about the children • using the children to relay messages • using visitation to harass her • threatening to take the children away.

USING INTIMIDATION

Making her afraid by using tooks, actions, gestures • smashing things • destroying her property • abusing pets • displaying weapons.

USING EMOTIONAL ABUSE

Putting her down • making her feel bad about herself • calling her names • making her think she's crazy • playing mind games • humiliating her • making her feel guilty.

SEXUAL

USING ISOLATION

SEXUAL

Controlling what she does, who she sees and talks to, what she reads, where she goes • limiting her outside involvement • using jealousy to justify actions.

MINIMIZING, DENYING AND BLAMING

Making light of the abuse and not taking her concerns about it seriously • saying the abuse didn't happen • shifting responsibility for abusive behavior • saying she caused it.

Why Doesn't She Just Leave?

- Perpetrators are most likely to cause serious harm or commit homicide within the first two months, postseparation.
- On average, one woman a week is murdered by a current or former male partner.
- Over half of the women who are killed by their abusive partners are murdered when they attempt to leave or post separation. This equates to one every nine days.

Australia's National Research Organisation for Women's Safety. (2019). Domestic and family violence lethality: The facts about intimate partner homicide. Sydney, NSW: ANROWS.

The Multi-Agency Risk Assessment & Management Framework (MARAM) builds on and replaces the Common Risk Assessment Framework (CRAF).

It aims to establish a system-wide shared understanding of family violence and requires collaborative practice to be effective.

It is a best practice model and guides professionals across the continuum of service responses, across the range of presentations and spectrum of risk.

Please recognise that I am already active in resisting the violence, building safety for myself and others, and managing risk. I am constantly...

Self-assessing my safety and watching for changes in risk, and forecasting risk.

Building my safety awareness through information and experience.

Inventing and implementing ways (tactics/strategies) to keep myself and the people I care about safe.

Partnering with Victim Survivors

To ensure our responses are effective, we must centralise the victim survivors' expertise. This means we:

- Partner with the victim survivor to discuss what an increase in safety could look like for them during this time
- Understand that the victim survivor lives with the risk day to day, and has multiple ways to manage their safety
- Understand that the violence they experience is an affront to their dignity
- Support their choices, whilst using the resources available to us to boost their options
- Resist seeing the victim survivor as passive
- Support self-determination
- Believe that victim survivors are experienced in anticipating patterns and tactics of abuse used against them
- Understand that risk is changing constantly, and what might make them safe today, might not be effective tomorrow

Responding to Victim Survivors

power • choice UOICE •

Prioritise victim survivor safety, strength and expertise in all interventions – when phoning, always ask if it's safe to talk.

Responding to victim survivors:

- Ask gentle but direct questions
- Respond to them before you respond to the situation
- Hear, believe and validate
- Discuss only when they are in a safe place
- Assess, prioritise and action immediate safety
- Outline options including referrals
- Respect their readiness
- Follow up and 'keep your door open'

- I'm concerned about you because I notice [list family violence indicators present]. When I hear/see things like this, I worry that there might be more going on. Is it ok if I ask you a few questions about how things are at home?
- Is it safe to talk right now?
- How are you and your family coping at the moment?
- Do you feel unsafe with anyone in your home?
- What happens if...?
- Would you like any help with this now?

Helpful Responses

- I believe you
- This must be scary/upsetting/worrying tell me about what you're doing to stay safe/to protect your children
- You are not to blame for their behaviour it's never your fault
- You and your kids have the right to be safe
- Do you know what you would like to do next?
- Would you like to speak about your options for support and safety?
- Let's talk about safety planning

Unhelpful Responses

- Why do you stay with a person like that?
- What could you have done to avoid the situation?
- Why did he hit you?
- He seems really stressed and angry
- Sounds like he just snapped
- He is a good dad, though, right?

Safety Plan Checklist

WHEN IT'S SAFE TO TALK, ASK FIRST:

"What are you already doing or not doing to keep yourself safe?"

WHO needs to be involved in the safety plan?WHAT would you need to take with you if you flee?WHERE is a safe place to go where you wont be found?HOW will you get there?

WHEN will you put an action plan into place?

Remember, leaving is only one strategy and may not be an option for all. It's important to provide options and follow the lead of the victim survivor.

Response Options

If they want support:

- Offer to call police (000) if safe and appropriate
- Note the services and options available
- Discuss a safety plan
- Consider child wellbeing and safety needs
- Seek support from specialist family violence service

If they are not yet ready for support:

- Provide information about help and options available
- Monitor closely, check in regularly
- Consider child wellbeing and safety needs
- Let them know that they can seek assistance from you

Remember to document your interventions.
